

IS RED KITE RIGHT FOR US?

Welcome to Red Kite Round Up, Chicago Children's Theatre's multi-sensory simulated camping adventure designed specifically for children affected by Autism Spectrum Disorder and their families, caregivers and educators!

Parents and educators of children on the autism spectrum often shy away from attending the theatre because of the behavioral expectations in place at such events. Red Kite Round Up is different. While at a traditional live theatre experience, children are expected to sit still and keep quiet, at Red Kite Round Up kids are encouraged to move, laugh, talk, sing and interact with our specially trained teaching artists.

The space at Red Kite is friendly to children on the autism spectrum, with plenty to touch, see and hear. Our theatrical designers have created a safe, inviting and awe-inspiring space where your child can experience the sound and wind of the forest, feel the gentle spray of a river, pet fuzzy newborn chicks, sing songs around a campfire and so much more. This multi-sensory approach is unique and especially engaging for a child on the spectrum.

Our guides are specifically trained to be responsive to each child and will work to accommodate his or her specific sensitivities. Where traditional theatre might provoke anxiety as an unfamiliar experience, we provide a detailed Social Story in advance in order to better prepare your child to take an adventure with us.

We meet each child where they are and interact with them on their terms. No child is ever forced into a particular way of participating. Some children have preferred to observe from a distance and others wanted to hold onto a single prop for the entire time. Any choice made by a child at Red Kite Round Up is celebrated and accepted.

Red Kite Round Up is about providing your child or student with a meaningful shared theatrical experience where he or she can enjoy being a kid!
